Key Benefits:

- Boost immunity*
- Healthy defense*
- Maintain overall health*

What is it?

Immune 360 combines the most powerful, research-backed nutrients, herbs and botanicals for optimal immune support.

What is it formulated to do?

Our immune system is our primary line of defense to help us stay healthy, but in today's environment, it needs powerful nutritional support. Immune 360 was developed to provide this support with natural ingredients that support the function of our immune system cells.*

Who may benefit?

Anyone who wants to maintain optimum health can benefit by supporting their immune system.* This is particularly important for those who live in urban areas, consume a less-than-optimum conventional diet or experience daily stress.

How is it used?

Two capsules daily for health maintenance. This dose can be increased as desired (when faced with health challenges) for immune system support.

Why You Need Powerful Support

Your immune system protects your health and vitality in an endless number of ways. Environmental stress and poor personal habits continually challenge our immune system. The more we strengthen our immunity and support our circle of defense, the more we are prepared to live a healthy and vibrant life.*

After more than 20 years of research and an in-depth study of nature's most natural protectors, such as carotenoids, pigments, polysaccharides, vitamins, minerals and SuperFoods, RBC Life has formulated a cutting-edge immune support formula, Immune 360.

Complete Nutrition for Your Immune System

Thanks to the dedication of RBC Life Sciences founder, Clinton Howard, it is now well-known that Aloe vera helps regulate the immune system by activating white blood cells. These are the primary immune system cells whose role is to find and destroy invading organisms. Many RBC Life products, including Immune 360, contain high-quality Aloe vera because we believe it is so important for optimum health.

FROM RBC LIFE SCIENCES®

- See Over -

Another whole food found in Immune 360 is our organically grown spirulina. Ample research indicates that spirulina supports optimum immune function.*

In addition to these Aloe vera and spirulina superfoods, we have also added vitamins C, A and E as well as zinc and selenium. These vitamins and minerals have been well-researched and proven to have specific immune supportive properties.

Our Immune Blend

Immune 360 contains a unique blend of ingredients called Immune Blend. The ingredients in this blend have been well-researched and shown to support immunity in a variety of ways. It starts with Ashwaganda, an herb that has long been used in Ayurvedic medicine. In addition to its powerful immune regulating properties, it is known as a rejuvenating and anti-stress herb.*

Immune Blend also contains astragalus, a Chinese herb used for thousands of years to strengthen the body. Astragalus supports immune cells, which play a major role in protecting us from viruses.* Ellagic acid has been used for some time as a supportive nutrient for those with a weakened immune system. Ellagic acid is naturally found in berries, walnuts and pomegranates, and it is one of the reasons these foods are so healthy for us.

Maitake mushroom is another unique ingredient. This is a highly regarded Japanese mushroom shown to activate the immune system.* Maitake mushrooms contains beta-glucans, and in addition Immune 360 contains concentrated beta-glucans to ensure that you benefit from the whole food as well as the concentrated beta-glucans that have been researched and proven to support the immune system.*

The Power of Carotenes

The beautiful colors you see in fruits and vegetables are not just for looks. They provide powerful protection from the sun's damaging rays. When we consume produce, these pigments offer protection for our bodies too.* They are potent antioxidants called carotenes.

Immune 360 contains RBC Life's patented combination of carotenes called Phycotene complex, which has been shown to help stimulate immune processes better than vitamin A and beta-carotene alone.* In addition to Phycotene®, we added two other carotenoids, astaxanthin and lycopene, which have been shown to protect cells from damage better than other carotenoids.*

Our Immune Systems Need Help

Our bodies wage a daily battle to keep us healthy. Our environment and personal habits provide a host of challenges, wreaking havoc to our immune system. The more we do to support our immune system and to build an impenetrable circle of defense, the better our chances to live long, healthy and vibrant lives.*
